

The Best Tortilla Chips

Six crunchy, tasty dippers that can stand up to your favorite salsa.

Yellow Corn

Garden of Eatin' Yellow Corn Chips

“Like the chips in a taqueria, these have an authentic corn taste,” exclaimed a tester.

“They’re sturdy enough to get a nice hold on guacamole without compromising crunchiness.”

To buy: $3.50 for 9 ounces.

White Corn

Tostitos Crispy Rounds

“These thin, almost flaky chips have a delicate corn flavor that’s great on its own,” one staffer said. “You don’t even need the dip.” Their flat, round shape is perfect for nachos.

To buy: $4 for 13 ounces.

Multigrain

Food Should Taste Good Multigrain Tortilla Chips

“I’d pair these with a dense dip, like hummus,” said a fan of the thicker-than-average wedges flecked with bits of flax, sesame, and sunflower seeds.

To buy: $5 for 12 ounces.

Blue Corn
Green Mountain Gringo Organic Blue
Corn Strips

“The long, rectangular shape allows you to easily scoop up salsa from the jar,” noted a panelist. “And I love the mild, earthy flavor and touch of salt.”

To buy: $3 for 8 ounces.

Green Mountain Gringo

Lime*Kettle Brand Chili Lime Tortilla Chips

“I’m obsessed with the zesty, citrusy flavor,” enthused a taster of these cayenne-spiked yellow-corn rounds. “There’s none of that artificial-lime tang.”

To buy: $3 for 8 ounces.

Spicy*Mexi-Snax Salsa Picante Tortilla Chips

Paprika and chili pepper give this winner a “fiery kick and a strong, spicy aftertaste.” And unlike so many of the one-note contenders in this category, its flavor is nuanced and not powdery.

To buy: $3.50 for 14 ounces.
